Synopsis

National Business Continuity Management (BCM) Programme

Singapore Business Federation (SBF) envisioned to encourage and enable more Singapore-based companies and SMEs to augment the robustness of their operation through BCM adoption. A BCM-ready private sector will help enhance Singapore's reputation as a Trusted Hub for reliable and quality service. Collectively, the preparedness for crises will enhance the nation's resilience to crises.

The National BCM Programme, a $30 million initiative was launched on 1st December 2008 to engage the private sector in building economic resilience through the attainment of BCM certification (Based on SS 540 or equivalent). The government will be providing financial incentives to defray the cost of BCM-adoption to encourage more companies or SMEs to be BCM-ready. Learn on how SBF plans to roll out the National BCM Programme and support Singapore-based enterprises to become BCM resilient and enhance their overall economic competitiveness.
